

SOCIAL and OTHER INTERESTS of WOMEN

SOCIETY

Among the courtesies tendered to Miss Fannie Bartlett of Osage, Iowa, who is a guest of Miss Nell Haugen, was the picnic given Friday evening by Miss Elmer Wolf and Miss Florence Forster at Brandywine creek. Besides Miss Bartlett, the Misses Haskell and Robinson, guests of Mrs. V. E. Cady, were honor guests. Leaving the city at 5 o'clock, the young people spent the entire evening at Brandywine, where a steak roast was enjoyed. Those in the party were Miss Bartlett, Miss Haugen, Miss Haskell, Miss Robinson, Miss Wolf, Miss Forster, Irvin Dolk, Kenneth Todd, Philip Nier, Charles Matthews of Boston, Leon Makleiski and Miller Hamilton. Miss Bartlett leaves this morning for her home in Osage, Ia., while Miss Haskell and Miss Robinson will remain a week.

Miss Bartlett was the recipient of a delightful courtesy Thursday evening, when Mrs. Roland Witwer, Mishawaka av., entertained at a 7 o'clock dinner. Covers were placed for six at the table, which was centered with an empire basket of betanias, tied with a large pink tulle bow. The evening was spent informally.

Mrs. Rudolph Horst, Marquette av., entertained Friday evening at a law picnic, complimenting her guest, Miss Helen Spencer of Charlotte, Mich., and Miss Josephine Williams of Chicago, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Slick, North Shore drive. A 7 o'clock picnic dinner was served on the lawn at a large table attractively decorated with cut flowers. Besides the honor guests, covers were placed for Miss Helen Miller, Miss Ruth Fitzgibbons, Miss Vinnie Nickan of Elkhart, Ind., Miss Geraldine Borden of Salt Lake City, Utah, Glenn Slick, Ralph Slick, Paul McDonald, Richard Muesel and William Kaufer.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church was pleasantly entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. A. S. Allen, 617 6th st., River P. A large number of members attended the meeting. Following regular business period, Mrs. Wm. LaFrance gave a charming vocal selection, and Miss Bernice Freeman rendered several excellent piano solos. Light refreshments were served during a social hour at the close of the afternoon. The August meeting will be held with Mrs. Isabella Miller, 410 W. Navarre st.

The women's auxiliary of the Westminster Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. S. Roos, 943 Riverside drive. About 25 members and four guests were present. Contests were enjoyed after the regular business meeting, followed by a number of delightful vocal solos by Mrs. T. Shanafelt, accompanied by Mrs. Clinton Carson. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Strayer. The society will meet the third Friday in August with Mrs. Strayer at her home on N. Scott st.

Wife of Sen. Borah Receives Many Rare Gifts From Chinese Proteges

Mrs. Wm. E. Borah.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. W. E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, has never traveled in the Orient, yet her collection of Chinese tapestries and jades and embroideries is one of the finest in the capital. "I have never visited the Orient, but the 'Orient' has visited me," explains Mrs. Borah when visitors at her Washington home comment on her Chinese curios. "Our home in Boise is always open to the Chinese residents of the city, and we have a great many Chinamen there. Mr. Borah helps them with professional advice, and I give them aid when I can. Then, to show their appreciation of the interest we take in them, they give us presents from time time, and always something rare and beautiful from the far east. That accounts for an Oriental collection in the home of a stay-at-home."

Although Mrs. Borah is loyal to Boise and considers Idaho her home, she is by birth a Californian, and as Mary McConnell, the talented daughter of Sen. W. J. McConnell of California, she was well known in society and political circles in Washington before she came here as the wife of Sen. Borah.

Music is Mrs. Borah's hobby and she plays the piano, the mandolin and banjo, and when she entertains either in Washington or in Boise music is invariably a part of the program.

She was stricken with pneumonia. E. B. Metzger of Alameda, Calif., formerly of this city, is in the city on a two months' visit with his cousin, F. W. Metzger, 308 N. Main st., and other relatives and friends. He was formerly in business in this city but having retired, is making his home in southern California where he has a large ranch.

Miss Maude Beall of Goshen is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Jontz, 606 N. Scott st., over the week end.

Mrs. C. H. Bergman and sons, Harold and Melvin of Bellevue, O., who motored to South Bend Monday and spent the week with friends, returned Saturday accompanied by Miss Greta Edner, 809 W. Jefferson av., who will remain several weeks.

The Misses Hazel Newman, Ethel Colard, Maurie Williams and Lillian Thomas leave today to spend the week-end at Indian lake, Dowagiac, Mich.

Horace O. Prell and wife of Chicago are the guests of Mr. Prell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Prell, 419 W. Madison st.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Boone and daughter, Gretchen, of Hammond, Ind., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Prell, 419 W. Madison st.

BIRTHS.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Raabe, 1205 E. Indiana av., a son, July 15.

Fashion Fads

Veils are worn rather more this year than last, but they are very thin and unobtrusive. Most of them are without spots or patterns, and of a fine single-thread mesh. The harem veils are not much in evidence.

Unquestionably the dancing craze has widened the skirt, just as also the same craze was the reason for the slitting of the dress. The slit was a necessity, and now that it has done its duty, we are discarding it and widening the skirt, since both here and abroad the world and his wife are dancing.

Bags made of squares of Irish lace, gold or gray, are also very recherché. These are lined with taffeta and mounted on those precious clasps only to be found in curiosity shops.

Despite the blaze of color that meets the eye in every direction, the most striking gowns are of black and white.

The Roman stripe materials are smartest when green and blue predominate.

One of the newest sashes, or made girdles, is of peppermint candy satin. This design has come to the front with amazing swiftness. It is not only used on frocks for waist drapery, but as cravats for negligee skirts or silk or muslin, for Panama hatbands, for high standing collars, and for coat lapels.

Sailor hats of chalk-white satin, the brim faced with black straw are fads of the midsummer season. They are attractive, but chalk-white satin isn't exactly practicable.

The tunic skirt is the skirt of the season. The tunic is but a few inches shorter than the underskirt and it falls in graceful folds from a gathered top.

The Japanese collar which has nothing Oriental about it except its name is the popular collar for summer gowns. It's so wide and rolling, and cool looking that it might better be called a sailor collar.

The new detachable tunics are hailed with delight by the woman who likes variety in clothes. With one skirt as a foundation and two or three tunics of different material and color she may have a different costume for every occasion. A skirt of navy blue gabardine makes a very good skirt for these "transformations."

Street skirts are worn very short; many smart women wear them to about where the shoe top would be if high shoes were worn.

Very few trains are worn on evening dresses, except on gowns intended for semi-formal occasions. Dancing frocks are very short.

The flower-pot hat has blossomed forth in a new guise, and in black straw, with roses and green leaves resting on the brim, it is a delightfully feminine confection.

How to Use Fireless Cooker

Success Dependent On Knowing Its Limitations: Lightens Summer Work

Much has been said and written both for and against the fireless cooker, but it must be acknowledged that this method of cooking is superior to any other during the hot weather. Especially is this true when it comes to the making of soups. While there are good brands of soup upon the market ready for use there are many housekeepers who will not furnish any but the home-made article for their table.

To make good soup requires many hours of cooking and this means a coal fire or an expenditure for gas. An excellent stock can be made in the fireless cooker so that one can always have it on hand for the making of various soups.

No one can deny the value of the fireless cooker in preparing cereals, hominy, oatmeal and similar cereals which take many hours to cook can be put into the cooker over night and be all hot and ready for breakfast in the morning.

Other advantages are the absence of any odor of cooking throughout the house. In summer time when doors and windows are all open the various odors coming from the kitchen are not always agreeable. Then, of course, the kitchen is much cooler all day, and there are fewer pots and pans to wash than there are by the fire cookery. Again, there can be no fear of food spoiling. It cannot burn or dry up.

It is said that those women who object to the fireless cooker are disappointed because they expect too much of it. But intelligence here is as necessary as it is with other methods of cooking.

For instance, any saucepan put into the cooker should be filled to the brim with water, because if space is left the heat escapes, consequently the food does not cook thoroughly. It would be the same thing if one put a vessel over the fire and then let the fire go down almost to the point of extinction. Yet no sane woman would expect food to cook without fire under it. They do, however, seem to think the fireless should work miracles. Another point to be remembered is: Never open the cooker while food is cooking. If this is done the vessel must be taken out and thoroughly reheated.

Again, when any food is considered more than usually touchy or hard the time for cooking should be extended say an hour beyond the given length.

Baked beans can be cooked to perfection in the fireless cooker and so can beef stew.

A loaf of home-made Boston bread will be a surprise to the family. This can be cooked in the fireless and be put to finish off and brown in the oven.

The recipe is as follows: One and one-half cups of graham flour.

Two cups of corn meal. Half cup molasses. One pint sweet milk. Half teaspoon soda. One teaspoon salt.

Stir all together and steam in the cooker for three hours and a half.

TODAY'S HEALTHOGRAM.

Medical science has found no better preventative for tuberculosis than fresh air and hygienic living. Healthy blood is the best of germicides, and the best way to get healthy blood is to supply the lungs with clean, fresh air, give the stomach plenty of wholesome, simple food, keep the skin clean and active and lead a normal life.

DR. THOMSON'S EYE TALKS
(TALK NO. 219)
Lens Grinding.

The good effect of a pair of lenses does not lie in the material they are made of but in the accuracy of the grinding. It is not the particular kind of glass that counts but the skill of the optician in measuring your eyes and of the lens grinder in making each curve exact. The work of the best optician in the world can be offset by an unskilled or cheap workman. The slightest variation in any meridian of the lens from the effect that the optician ordered will make your glasses imperfect and you will not get the results from them that you should get. In my factory our work is so accurate that some of the most particular eye specialists on the Pacific coast send us their special work to be done. Oculists and opticians in Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Portland, and San Francisco send their lens prescriptions to South Bend. Every lens that leaves our hands receives the most careful and critical inspection. When I fit your eyes and write a prescription for your lenses you can depend that the lenses will not vary a thousandth part of an inch from that prescription.
